

Collected Verse of Rudyard Kipling: 1907

For to make plain that mans disdain Is but new Beautys birth For to possess in merriness The joy of all the earth. As Thou didst teach all lovers speech And LJfe all mystery, So shalt Thou rule by every school Till life and longing die, Who wast or yet the Lights were set, A whisper in the Void, Who shalt be sung through planets young When this is clecm destroyed. Beyond the bounds our staring rounds. Across the pressing dark, The children wise of outer skies Look hitherward and mark A light that shifts, a glare that drifts, Rekindling thus and thus.
Not all forlorn, for Thou hast borne Strange tales to them of us. Time hath no tide but must abide The servant of Thy will ; Tide hath no time, for to Thy rhyme The ranging stars stand still Regent of spheres that lock our fears Our hopes invisible. Oh t WM certes at Thy decrees We fashioned Heaven and Hell! Pure Wisdom hath no certain path That lacks thy moming-eyne. And captains bold by Thee controlled Most like to Gods design.
