

The Woman in White (Annotated)

The Woman in White is Wilkie Collins fifth published novel, written in 1859. It is thought to be among the first mystery novels and is widely regarded as one of the first (and finest) in the genre of sensation books. The tale is sometimes considered an early example of detective fiction with the hero, Walter Hartright, employing many of the sleuthing techniques of later private detectives. The use of multiple narrators draws on Collins's legal training, and as he points out in his Preamble: the story here presented will be told by more than one pen, as the story of an offense against the laws is told in Court by more than one witness. In 2003, Robert McCrum writing for The Observer listed The Woman in White number 23 in the top 100 greatest novels of all time, and the novel was listed at number 77 on the BBC's survey The Big Read. This edition has been formatted for your Kindle, with an active table of contents.
