Not illustrated. 1877 Excerpt: ...and a monument placed over his grave, with a similar inscription to that upon the brass, which is as follows:--DEATH Or Gi-orv. Sacred to the memory of James HiTrnroN, late Sergeant, Kings Dragoon Guards, a native of New Deer parish, who fell gallantly fighting near Gilzen, 26 of August, 1714, under the Command of Captain Fraser of Strichen. Can storied Urn or animated Bust Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath! Can Honours voice provoke the silent Dust? Or flattery sooth the dull, cold ear of Death?--After the property of Strichen passed from the late Lord Lovat, the church underwent considerable repair, and the brass being thrown aside, it was taken possession of by a grandnephew of the gallant Sergeants, from whom (through the kindness of local friends) I have procured the above copy of the inscription. I am also told that Capt. Fraser had a copy of the inscription engrossed on parchment, and presented to Hutcheons brothers and Bisters. The idea of the horse on Mormond had doubtless been suggested by the White Horse in Berks, which is an object of great antiquity. It is mentioned as Mons Albi Equi in a deed of A.r. 858 (Cliron. Abingdon, 1100-35); but, unlike the horse in Berks, which is represented as galloping, that upon the bill of Mormond is in a stiff and erect posture, and altogether destitute of animation. The latter covers nearly halt an acre of ground. It measures about 126 feet in height, from the hoofs to the ears; the body is about 106 feet in length; the distance from the foreshouMer to the tip of the nose is about 36 feet; the head is about 35 feet in length; the trunk of the body about 41 feet in depth; and its extreme length, from the tip of the nose to the outer point of the tail, is about 16-fe it. A Stag with...
