

Homeland Part 2 Of 2

Part Two Of Two Parts In this first book in his new multi-volume epic of Chicago, John Jakes introduces Paul Crown, former Berlin urchin, soon to be motion picture magnate. Joseph Crown, Pauls German-born uncle, heads a respectable brewery. Josephs son, heralding the new, beats the socialist drum, to his fathers great displeasure. Set in the turbulent 1890s, this story sweeps from Europe to an America exploding with change, heading toward a splendid little war with Spain...and a terrible one 14 years into the new century. Brings to life the sounds, smells and tastes of turn-of-the-century America. (Publishers Weekly)
