

The Last of the Mohicans

The Last of the Mohicans: A Narrative of 1757 is a historical novel by James Fenimore Cooper. The story takes place in 1757, during the French and Indian War (the Seven Years War), when France and Great Britain battled for control of the North American colonies. The story takes place Just West of the Cuyahoga, in the Cleveland, Ohio, Metropark regions in Lorain and Cuyahoga counties. During this war, the French called on allied Native American tribes to fight against the more numerous British colonists in this region. The novel was one of the most popular in English. The book has been Coopers most popular work, and it has remained one of the most widely read novels throughout the world, and it has impacted the way many view both the American Indians and the frontier period of American history. The romanticized image of the strong, fearless, and ever resourceful frontiersman, as well as the stoic, wise, and noble red man were notions derived from Coopers characterizations more than from anywhere else.
